Pointed Out

Albany, July 31 .- A vigorous request for an effective food control bill in New York in order to enable state sions of the Federal measure now gardens. pending in Congress was made by Governor Whitman in a special message transmitted to-night to the Legislature assembled in extraordinary session to enact food legislation.

"It is our duty not only to take care of ourselves-we are together with England, France, Italy and Russia," England, France, Italy and Russia, the message read, "If our cause is going to win we must care for our allies. We must send more than men, money or munitions. We must send food above everything else in the world. We cannot do this without making real sacrifices. In order that we may do it with as little disturbance to our own economic life as possible, I have convened you in extraordinary session."

Powers Are Outlined

The Governor recommended the appointment of a State Food Commission being exercised by our allies."

The message contained no suggestion that maximum or minimum prices be fixed, the Governor holding price fixing to be a Federal function. In connection with the latter, however, the Governor pointed out some of the dif-ficulties to be encountered if an attempt is made to fix minimum quota-

Counts On United Action

The Governor answered some of his many critics, who have held unneces-sary an extra session for the enact-ment of state food legislation, by de-

"It has been suggested that there are interests which will defeat any atregulation. I do not believe that any substantial group of people in the State of New York will, by reason of their own selfish interests, attempt to block any such measure. I am con-fident that we can, with the aid of ail, with the conscientious support and devotion of all, accomplish much toward solving this problem by the enactment of proper legislation.

"It may be urged by some that the of amendment. If the Governor main-state should await action by the Fed-eral government, but there are two an-swers to this contention: First, that it swers to this contention: First, that it is our important and inherent duty to provide for the people of this state as best we can at the earliest passible moment, and, second, that there is nothing in the suggestions which I am about to make which will in any way conflict with any legislation thus far proposed with any legislation thus far proposed in Congress. The powers which I would suggest the Legislature confer upon a commission are entirely discre-tionary, and the commission should be tionary, and the commission should be required to act in conjunction with the Federal food administration. On the other hand, it is inevitable that the states must bear the brunt of any work carried on by the Federal government and must furnish it with the information or which to have any action it may tion on which to base any action it may see fit to take. It is therefore impera-tive to create this agency without any further delay."

First Laws Insufficient

Early in the message it was recalled Early in the message it was recalled that during the regular legislative ses-sion a joint committee, consisting of appointees of the Governor, Mayor Mitchel of New York and the Legis-lature, recommended food control leg-islation. That which was enacted the Governor held to be "not sufficient to cope with the present emergencies aris-ing out of the war."

The Executive subsequently cited figures showing that the state's food exports had increased in value from $326,003,016 in 1914 to $740,278,669 in 1916, and that in the same period the value of imports had decreased from $96,863,869 to $58,671,031.

"It must be remembered," the message continued, "that individuals in the State of New York are competing with Who Sold Infected Packages State of New York are competing with the governments of foreign countries in the purchase of necessities. As instances, I am credibly informed that a foreign power has lately been negotiating for 4,000,000 cans of salmon, the entire output of one of the largest canneries in the United States, and that recently a foreign government purchased 1,000,000 pounds of bacon at 32 cents a pound.

Governor's Proposals Meet With Much Opposition in Senate

Albany, July 31.—The Legislature convened to-night in special session

The Governor recommended the appointment of a State Food Commission with these powers:

"To obtain information on all food production and consumption and report the same to the Federal food administration, including the amount of food and fuel in storage, the state's own requirements and its possible food exports and imports to other states and allied countries.

"To prohibit further placing in storage of food products without its permission and to prescribe rules covering the same.

"To seize and distribute food products in case of necessity, after paying the value of property so seized.

"All of the powers above enumerated," the Governor declared, "are being exercised by our allies."

The message contained no suggestion.
